

NANA KWAME

nanakwame@ownmail.net

Life sucks, and then you die.

Don't play games with a girl who can play them better.

Want to know who your real friends are? Mess up and see who is still standing beside you.

Stop the heartache, rewind the good times, fast-forward the bad things, and pause the unforgettable moments. The only reason people hold on to memories so tightly is because they are the only things that stay the same when everyone and everything changes.

Be careful who you trust, don't listen to anyone who gets in your way, do what you think is right, and forget what other people have to say.

Be crazy, be stupid, be wild, be silly. Because life's too short to worry about being cool.

Judge me and I'll prove you wrong. Tell me what to do, and I'll tell you off. Say I'm not worth it and watch where I end up.

Fear nothing. Risk everything.

Growing old is mandatory...but growing up, my friends, well... that is optional.

I'd rather be hated for who I am than loved for someone I'm not.

True friends are hard to find, difficult to leave and impossible to forget.

You have to take to good with the bad, smile with the sad, love what you got, remember what you had, always forgive, but never forget, learn from your mistakes, but never regret; people change, things go wrong, but just remember that life goes on.

Stand up for what you believe in, even if it means standing alone.

There comes a point in your life when you realize who matters, who never did, who won't anymore, and who never will. So don't worry about the people in your past. There is a reason they didn't make it to your future.

The past. It's done. It's unchangeable. Move on.

NANA KWAME